1. OPENING OF AN ACCOUNT

1.1 General principles

1.1.1. Scope of the terms and conditions

These terms and conditions apply to the accounts of BCP Bank (Mauritius) Ltd (hereinafter referred to as the "Bank"), to its clientele of private individuals, professionals and private professions.

In case of contradiction between the General Terms and Conditions and the Specific Terms and Conditions applicable to each product and service, the provisions contained in the latter take precedence.

Some of the products and services presented in these Terms and Conditions may no longer be marketed.

1.1.2. Terms of opening

- (a) In accordance with the legislation on the participation of financial institutions in the fight against money laundering arising from drug trafficking or organised crime, the Bank is required to verify the identity and address of the client at the time of the opening of an account. To do this, the Customer must present an official ID (national identity card or passport) with his photograph and a proof of address of less than 3 months. Any other document may be requested according to the Bank's policy. The Bank keeps a copy of these documents. In case of a power of attorney given to operate the account, any agent must prove his identity and address to the Bank under the same conditions as the account holder.

The Bank also collects a specimen signature of each of the persons authorised to operate the account.

Any request to open an account is subject to rigorous monitoring and the opening of an account cannot, under any circumstances, be carried out if all the required documents are not present. The opening of an account remains at the discretion of the Bank, which reserves the right to refuse a request to open an account without having to justify itself to the customer.

As required under the current Banking Act, the Bank shall submit your account information and any other information as may be required from time to time, other than the balance and amount held therein, to the Central Accounts Registry.

Any account opening will automatically benefit from internet banking services unless otherwise indicated by the Customer upon the opening of the account or to the Relationship Manager subsequently.

- (b) The account holder must notify the Bank in writing, within 30 days, of any change in the information he provided when opening the account or subsequently with the appropriate supporting documents. All correspondence must be addressed to the Bank and not to an employee on his own behalf.

All KYC information will be updated according to the current legislation on the fight against money laundering and the financing of terrorism and proliferation.

- (c) In addition, in accordance with anti-money laundering legislation, the Bank is obliged to inquire with the Client in the event of unusual transactions, in particular because of their terms, their amount and their exceptional nature with regards to those treated previously, on the origin and destination of the sums in question as well as on the object of the transaction, the identity of the person who benefits from it or other useful information.

To disclose, with the authorities concerned and in accordance with the provisions of the laws in force in Mauritius, the sums entered in its books and the transactions related to these sums.

Under conditions laid down by it, the Bank may allow the Customer to request for the opening of an account through internet banking. In this case, such a request remains subject to the approval of the Bank and to the prior verification of the address and identity of the Customer (two proofs of identity are required in the absence of a physical meeting).

1.1.3. Combating money laundering and the financing of terrorism and proliferation.

In addition to the Bank's obligations under laws relating to Anti-Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing and Proliferation, the Bank reserves its right not to process any transaction on an account where the transaction to which it relates would not be sufficiently clear or transparent or where there are insufficient supporting documents.

1.2 Authority to operate a bank account

The account holder can give a power of attorney to one or more person(s) named 'agent' to perform on his account, certain transactions exhaustively listed in the internal proxy form. The co-holders of a joint account may likewise, by mutual agreement, give a power of attorney to a person to perform on their account, certain transactions exhaustively listed in the internal proxy form. The Bank may require that the power of attorney be embodied in a notarial deed.

The Bank reserves the right not to accept an agent subject to giving reasons for its refusal. The Bank may refuse any power of attorney, the complexity of which would not be compatible with its management constraints.

Any holder (or co-holder in the case of a joint account) remains responsible for all transactions made on the account by the agent. He is personally liable to the Bank for any debit balance resulting from the operations carried out by the agent.

The power of attorney ends if the account is closed or the holder dies. When it is given on a joint account, it ends in the event of the death of one of the co-holders as well as in case of termination of the joint account agreement, closing of the joint account and guardianship of any of the co-holders.

The power of attorney may be revoked at any time by the account holder or, in case of a joint account, by any of the co-holders. The revocation takes effect on the date of receipt by the Bank of a registered letter with acknowledgment of receipt sent by the holder or co-holder, or on the date of the signature to the Business Centre, for a request for revocation. It is for the holder or co-holder to inform the agent in advance and to require from him the restitution of all payment and withdrawal instruments (cheque books, cards) which is to be found in his possession. Where appropriate, it is for the account holder to take all the necessary steps (code change, blocking ...) to prevent the agent from accessing the account through internet banking. Those transactions which are continued to be performed by the agent may engage the liability of the account holder.

1.3 Maintenance of Customer Information and Periodic Reviews

- a) The account holder shall promptly notify the bank if there is any change in his/her personal or related party information. Any such changes shall be accompanied by any supporting documents, as may be requested by the Bank.
- b) As part of its ongoing customer due diligence and regulatory requirements, the Bank may from time to time, request the Account Holder to provide updated information and/or documents to ascertain the reliability and accuracy of his information held by the Bank. Such requests may be made to the Account Holder in writing by way of a letter sent to the last known mailing address or via e-mail to the last known e-mail address of the account holder as communicated to the Bank by the Account Holder.

- c) Failure to adhere to sections a) and b) above shall be deemed as a breach of the General Terms and Conditions and the Bank reserves the right to terminate, withdraw, cancel, suspend, or extend any banking services provided at any time in whole or in part without prior notice.
- d) By registering a physical mailing address or e-mail address with the bank, the Account Holder unreservedly accepts that the Bank shall bear no responsibility or liability whatsoever in relation to risks inherent to the transmission/receipt/exchange of information and/or documents through post, courier service or electronic mail. While the Bank shall apply its internal controls to protect the interests of the Account Holder, the Bank shall not be liable for having acted in good faith upon information, documents or instructions purporting to come from the Account Holder but which, is subsequently discovered to, or may, emanate from unauthorised individuals or in any other circumstances whatsoever.

1.4 Outsourcing

Always anxious to ensure the best international standards for its clients, the Bank could reposition some of its services within specialised entities. The acceptance of these Conditions by the account holder implies his acceptance to the transmission of his data to external service providers.

1.5 Handling customer complaints

The Bank is determined to provide the best quality of service to its customers at all times. However, if the Customer is not completely satisfied, he may contact the Bank using one of the channels available to them for this purpose, including:

1.6 Joint accounts

1.6.1 Definition

A joint account is a collective account with joint and several liability, open to two or more adults (co-holders). The account can operate, on the one hand, by co-holders who confer on each other all the powers to operate the account or, on the other hand, collectively which requires joint signatures for all operations.

1.6.2 Operation

The joint account operates as an individual account. The present General Terms and Conditions are therefore applicable to it, subject to the specificities related to the multiple holders.

For accounts operating under a single signature, i.e where the co-holders have conferred all the powers on each other, each holder may under his sole signature:

- i) perform all operations on the account, both credit and debit, and use any overdraft authorised by the Bank and have any instrument of payment and withdrawal delivered to him; and/or
- ii) set up a Term Deposit in the name of both co-holders subject to the specific conditions for Term Deposit as set out further below.

The only transactions requiring the agreement of all co-holders are the appointment of an agent and the allocation of the credit balance after termination of the joint account agreement. For accounts operating with two or more signatures, where the co-holders require that the account operates with collective or bilateral instructions: notably all transactions affecting the account, both credit and debit, as well as the use of overdraft authorised by the Bank and to have all payment and withdrawal instruments delivered to them, require two or more signatures (as per the instructions provided on the application for opening the account).

In all these cases, each co-holder is personally liable vis-à-vis the Bank for all debts arising from the operation of the account by any of the co-holders. Accordingly, the Bank may require any of them to pay the entire debit balance of the account. The heirs of the co-holder are also jointly and severally liable for any debit balance existing on the day of death of the co-holder.

There is also solidarity and indivisibility between the heirs of the co-holder by reason of the debit balance existing on the day of the death.

1.6.3 Consequences of the death of one of the co-holders

In the event of the death of one of the co-holders, in the case where all the powers are conferred on each other, the account shall continue to operate for the time being under the sole signature of the surviving co-holder, unless it has been specified otherwise at the opening of the account, or in the event of objection notified to the Bank by the heirs, until the transfer of the existing balance in a new account in the name of the surviving co-holder or closing of the account by remitting the existing balance to the surviving co-holder. In the event of the death of one or more co-holders of a joint account which operates collectively with two or more signatures, the account will be blocked as soon as the Bank is notified. The heirs of the deceased Customer must present the death certificate and the affidavit of succession for the purpose of their rights in the succession. The balance in the joint account will then be paid by cheque in the name of the surviving co-holder(s) or to the estate of the deceased Customer.

1. Issuance and use of cards

- 1.1. The card is strictly personal, the holder must compulsorily affix his signature on same upon receipt. It is strictly forbidden for the cardholder to lend it or hand it over to a third party.

The absence of a signature on a payment card justifies the refusal of acceptance of this card by the trader.

- 1.2. A personal code is communicated confidentially by the Bank to each cardholder and only to that cardholder. The cardholder must take all appropriate measures to ensure the security of the card and confidential code. He must therefore, in his own interest, keep it absolutely secret and not communicate it to anyone. He must ensure that he is protected from prying eyes and keep it separate from his card.

As a result, the secret code is sent separately from the card.

The secret code is essential for making cash withdrawals on automatic vending machines.

- 1.3. In the event that the card is sent by post to the cardholder at the discretion of the Bank, the card will be considered as having been received in good and due form; the Bank will not be liable to the cardholder for loss and/or damage of any kind if the card is not received or otherwise when the card is delivered by post.

1.4. The cardholder will not be relieved of any liability to the Bank in case he does not sign the sales receipt or cash voucher, whether required or not.

1.5. The cardholder will be responsible for all credit facilities granted by the Bank in respect of the card account and all related charges regardless of the termination of this agreement.

The Bank may at the Customer's request assign a credit limit to be strictly observed on the card account. The cardholder may request a revision of this threshold at any time.

1.6. In order to establish any overrun of the credit limit, the Bank will take into account the amount of any card transaction not yet debited on the card account and any authorisation given by the Bank to a third party in respect of a potential transaction.

2. Payment

2.1. If applicable, a card account statement will be sent to the cardholder on a monthly basis at the end of each period ("billing period") on the statement date ("statement date") to be determined by the Bank and notified to the cardholder.

- 2.2. Any transaction by the cardholder will be made against payment of charges by the cardholder to the Bank in accordance with these terms and conditions and as decided by the Bank.
- 2.3. Transactions in foreign currencies made using the card outside the Republic of Mauritius will be converted into Mauritian rupees at the exchange rate determined by VISA International on the processing date, regardless of the date on which the amount is debited from the account of the cardholder in the books of the Bank.
- 2.4. The cardholder will have to review each statement issued in connection with the use of the card and notify the Business Centre of any alleged error within thirty days from the date of the statement. After this period, the statement and the transactions contained therein (except alleged error so notified) will be considered as correct between the Bank and the cardholder.

3. Charges and Commissions

- 3.1. A detailed brochure of charges, commissions and other charges related to the card and its use will be made available upon request at the Business Centre and is available on the bank's website. The charges will be debited from the bank account of the cardholder on the due date and are non-refundable.

5.3. A contactless feature has been added (as per the Visa rules) on the card to enable the customer to perform contactless payments. It's a secure way to perform the payment of small amounts without a PIN. Thus, the customer has the responsibility to always keep his card securely (in order to prevent the unintended activation of the contactless chip) and report any misuse.

6. Period of validity of the card - Renewal, withdrawal and return of the card

6.1. The card is valid until the date shown on the card itself.

6.2. On the due date, it is subject to an automatic renewal of the support, unless otherwise notified in writing by the holder or the account holder, at least two months before that date.

6.3. The Cardholder may terminate this Agreement at any time by written notice to the Bank. Such notification shall be sent together with the card and any additional cards. In the case of additional cards, the cardholder or the additional cardholder may terminate the agreement under the same conditions - with respect to the termination of the additional card - by written notification sent to the Bank accompanied by any additional cards. It is to be noted that the cards returned to the Bank will be cut in half.

- 6.4. The Bank has the right to withdraw or have the card withdrawn or blocked at any time, or not to renew it. The withdrawal decision is notified in all cases to the cardholder and/or the account holder. - 6.5. The Bank will provide a new card to the cardholder periodically until such termination takes place.
- 6.6. The remaining balance due on the card account as well as the amount of all card transactions made but not yet debited from the bank account and/or the card account will be, on the next payment date, immediately due and payable in full to the Bank at the termination of this Agreement, or the bankruptcy or death of the Cardholder. The cardholder or his estate will be responsible for repaying any outstanding balance in the bank account and/or card account and compensating the Bank for all costs, fees (including legal fees) and expenses incurred to recover any remaining balance due. The Bank reserves the right to charge interest at current the rate pending repayment of the sums due.

- 6.7. Regardless of the termination of the present Agreement by either party, the Cardholder will continue to be responsible for all charges incurred by the use of the Card, until the Card is returned to the Bank.

The closure of the account on which one or more cards operate entails the obligation of returning them immediately. The same applies in case of termination of the joint account Agreement.

7. Loss of the card

- 7.1. The loss or theft of the card and/or PIN must be reported promptly on the hotline number communicated to the cardholder, and in writing to the police (if abroad, to any VISA member). In such a case, the cardholder will confirm the loss in writing immediately to the Business Centre. The cardholder will be responsible for all sums debited from the card account following the unauthorised use of a card until notification of the loss, within the limits of the "Code of Banking Practice" of the Mauritius Bankers Association.

- 8.2. The Bank will not be held liable for any defect or defect in goods and services rendered and/or purchased by use of the card or card number. The Bank shall not be liable for the opinions, texts, images and/or other representations made or contained in any books, magazines, periodicals, mail order sales, brochures or any other document offering goods/services for consumption or sale.
- 8.3. Any claim against a trader must be resolved in advance by the cardholder with the trader himself. Inquiries relating to disputed transactions must be sent to the Business Centre in writing and will be processed in accordance with the VISA International rules. A claim by the cardholder against the trader does not relieve the cardholder of his obligations towards the Bank.
- 8.4. The Bank shall in no way be liable to the Cardholder for any inconvenience, loss, damage or embarrassment of any kind due to or resulting from an interruption or malfunction or failure of any ATM, TPE and/or communication or equipment or data processing system or transmission or any other cause of any kind regardless of the Bank or otherwise.

- 8.6. The Bank is authorised to honour any invoice, transaction by file, trade credit, cash withdrawal, contactless payment and/or any other charges indicating information according to the card imprint duly completed and transmitted.
- 8.7. The cardholder hereby agrees that all information in the Bank's books and statements relating to his transactions is conclusive and binding on him for all purposes.

- 9.1. Fraudulent use or any other improper use of the card exposes the cardholder to legal action.
- 9.2. If the cardholder does not comply with these Terms and Conditions for any reason, the Bank may initiate legal action against him in the country of issue of the card. The cardholder will be responsible for all costs and fees incurred through legal action, including legal fees and commission 10% payable to any Attorney for the recovery of any amount due.
- 9.3. In any legal action for the recovery of all sums due in connection with the card, documents relating to all transactions made and/or certified copies will be irrefutable evidence of such transactions.

10. Changes to the General Conditions

- 10.1. The Bank reserves its right to periodically change / modify / amend these Terms and Conditions (including the revision of fees/ commissions). Such changes / modifications / amendments will come into effect following notification to the cardholder by any means (including the publication of such changes/modifications/ amendments in any place considered appropriate).
- 10.2. By the use of his card after the entry into force of the changes/ modifications/amendments, the cardholder signifies his unreserved acceptance of the new General Terms and Conditions.

12. Right of compensation

- 12.1 In accordance with these General Terms and Conditions, in addition to any right of compensation conferred by law or under any other contract, the Bank may, without notice, consolidate the outstanding balance on any card account with the balance of all other accounts which the Cardholder would hold at the Bank. The Bank may also offset and/or transfer to the account of the holder any credit balance of any other account under the responsibility of the cardholder.

13. Effect of these General Terms and Conditions

- 13.2 Each of the clauses in these Terms and Conditions is separate and independent of each other. If any of these clauses would become invalid, it would be deemed null and void but will not affect the validity of other clauses which remain valid.

14. Data processing

The bank's VISA cards are produced by an external service provider. As a result, customer data related to card production are transmitted to the service provider for processing. The acceptance of these General Terms and Conditions by the Customer implies acceptance of the transmission of his data to the external service provider.

4. CASH FLOW MANAGEMENT

Unauthorized overdraft and authorized overdraft, Eparfix and Eparplus contracts.

4.1. The Unauthorised overdraft

In the absence of a sufficient and available balance, the holder is liable to the denial of debit transactions and, in the case of the issue of a cheque, to the application of the rules sanctioning the issue of cheques without provision.

The holder must also, whether or not the transaction is denied, pay to the Bank charges applicable to the particular treatment of the transaction without prejudice to a possible termination by the Bank of certain services attached to the account: withdrawal of the card, termination of the overdraft authorisation.

As a result, the holder must take care to maintain his account as his operations progress. He must also be careful not to rely on future payments and always ensure that the credit transactions he expects (transfers of wages, cheques delivered for collection) have actually been charged to the account.

If the holder fears that the maximum amount of his overdraft authorisation is slightly exceeded or, in the absence of overdraft authorisation, that his account is slightly overdrawn, he must compulsorily inform the Business Centre beforehand. In exceptional circumstances, the latter may authorise this overrun. However, this derogation does not constitute a right for the holder, as well as an exceptionally granted authorisation does not presuppose any future authorisations.

The debit balance exceeding the maximum amount of the overdraft authorisation or, in the absence of such authorisation, the full debit balance of the account, bears interest at the rate of overdraft authorisation defined in the first subparagraph of paragraph 4.2.2 below, plus a mark-up defined in the Banking Charges table. The interest will be charged to the account and mentioned on the account statements under the conditions defined in the first subparagraph of paragraph 4.2.2.

4.2.The authorised overdraft

1.1.1. Grant – Operation

Unless otherwise specified or terminated in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 4.5, the holder may benefit from an overdraft facility. Any such facility will depend on the financial analysis of the holder's file. Minors and protected adults cannot benefit from this overdraft authorisation.

The benefit of the overdraft authorisation allows the holder to debit the balance of his account, within the limit of the maximum amount of the overdraft authorisation. It is reminded that before making any debit transaction from his account, the holder must ensure that the execution of this operation will not exceed the maximum amount of the overdraft authorisation or, if the holder does not benefit from such authorisation, will not overdraw his account balance. The consequences of non-compliance with this rule are described in Paragraph 2.1.3.

In the event of non-refund of the debit balance granted, the holder is likely to be registered on the 'Caution list'.

1.1.2. Tariff

The interest due by the holder in respect of the use of the overdraft facility is calculated at the prevailing rate shown in the 'Banking Charges' table. A different rate is applicable in case the maximum amount of the overdraft authorisation is exceeded. This rate may be modified after the granting of the overdraft authorisation. Each change will be brought to the attention of the holder prior to the effective date of the change in the rate, according to the rules set out in the Code of Banking Practice of the Mauritius Bankers Association.

If the balance of the Current Account is overdrawn by MUR 1,000, on the 10th of the month, and if the predefined 'trigger threshold' is also MUR 1,000, then an automatic transfer of MUR 5,000 will be debited from his Savings Account by the System, in favor of the Current Account.

If the balance of the Savings Account is insufficient (e.g. MUR 3,000), to fund the current account balance on this date and during the 'validity period'  (see below), the transfer will not be executed, nor postponed to another date.

➤ The balance to be credited: Based on account authorisation

Example: Account with a MUR 100,000 authorisation

The trigger level will be MUR 100,000 debit.

➤ The balance to be credited: Based on authorisation related to the account

5. ACCOUNT MONITORING AND ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Bank Statement and Internet Banking Services

5.1.The Statement of Account

The Bank will maintain the records and report periodically all credit and debit transactions affecting the account. It will draw up and send to the Customer periodic statements which he will verify with a view to immediately report any errors or omissions and at the latest within 30 days from the date appearing on the statement of account.

The conditions related to the statement of accounts are as follows: -

The holder receives a statement:

- every month (for current accounts of individuals)
- every three months (for personal savings accounts)
- every month (for professionals), provided that transactions have been recorded on the Customer's account during the relevant period, to the mailing address, which has been communicated, which details the transactions recorded on the account during the relevant period. In case of a joint account, only one statement is sent. In the case of subscription to the services of Internet Banking, the statement will be sent in electronic format.

The holder may, however, ask the Bank for statements to be sent to him at different frequencies; which service will be billed by the Bank.

The subscriber to internet banking services may ask the Bank for statements to be sent to him in paper format, which service will then be billed by the Bank. See Paragraph 4.3.12.

If upon receipt of his electronic or paper statement when the Customer has opted for this service, or after online consultation of his account, the Customer finds a transfer that he did not authorise or an error in the processing of a transfer, he must report it without delay and at the latest within 30 days from the date appearing on the statement of account.

Beyond this limitation period of 30 days, no objection will be admitted. They are made on the spot at the Business Centre or by registered letter with acknowledgment of receipt. After this period, the holder is presumed to have approved the transactions recorded on the statement of account.

May also appear on the statement, information concerning the account agreement (modification of tariff conditions, General Terms and Conditions).

A duplicate statement may be obtained and will be billed according to the current tariff.

5.2. Other methods to consult the account

The holder can also consult the balance of the account and obtain information on the last transactions carried out, according to the specific modalities of each service:

- With the cards on VISA enabled automated teller machines,
- Via the telematic services of Internet Banking.

5.3. Internet Banking Services

5.3.1. Object

The purpose of the following provisions is to define the General Terms and Conditions for access and use of Internet Banking services which enable the holder, hereinafter referred to as "the subscriber", to consult or/and manage his account(s) online. Unless otherwise expressly stipulated, these provisions do not derogate from the other provisions of these General Terms and Conditions.

Internet Banking services allow the Customer to view personal or general information and perform certain transactions.

5.3.2. Terms of Access to Internet Banking Services

Any opening of an account will automatically be linked to internet banking services unless otherwise indicated by the client.

Any subscription to the services of Internet Banking is subject to the holding or the opening by the subscriber of an account in the books of the Bank.

The services of Internet Banking are open to all Customers of the Bank, natural persons of age or their agents, upon written request of the account holder.

In case of a joint account, either of the holders can subscribe to Internet Banking services with the express agreement of the co-holder.

It is specified that the Bank may:

- Limit access to certain telematic services of Internet Banking, as hereinafter specified.
- And/or limit transactions, especially as per their amount.

5.3.3. Identification methods: subscriber number and confidential code

Access to services, including access to the account, is subject to a strong authentication by the Customer. The subscriber accesses the services of Internet Banking after having identified himself through the composition of a double key formed by the subscriber number assigned by the Bank when subscribing to Internet Banking services and the digital confidential code.

To allow the first access to Internet Banking service, the Bank assigns the subscriber a temporary confidential code. The subscriber is obliged to modify it and to choose a confidential code during the first connection. For security reasons the Bank will use a numeric keypad to authenticate passwords.

For any subscription request, the Bank reserves its right to send the Customer a subscription confirmation by e-mail. However, the Customer must ensure that the correct e-mail address has been communicated to the Bank and the Customer has the obligation to immediately notify any modification or change to the Bank. The Customer acknowledges and accepts responsibility for any consequences which may result from such failure.

The subscriber number and PIN are personal to the subscriber and are under his sole and exclusive responsibility. The subscriber may, on his initiative and at any time change his PIN, which he is advised to do frequently. It is advisable not to choose a confidential code easily detectable by a third party (such as a date of birth). It must never be indicated on the writings or electronic messages addressed to the Bank or verbally to a third party or even an employee of the Bank. The Customer therefore assumes full responsibility for any disclosure of his "personal access codes" and the consequences which may result, following their voluntary disclosure or not, unless it is proved to him that the violation of the confidentiality of the personal codes arose because of the Bank.

After three unsuccessful attempts to insert the PIN, the access device to internet banking service becomes inoperative. In this case, the service will be accessible again on request of the subscriber to the Bank under the same conditions as the subscription (this service could be billed).

5.3.4. Opposition to access to the services of Internet Banking.

In case of loss or theft of the confidential code or fraudulent use by a person other than the Customer, the subscriber must immediately inform the Bank which will block access to the services of Internet Banking. The objection must be made by telephone or in person and must be confirmed immediately by registered mail with acknowledgment of receipt or at the Business Centre. In case of dispute, the date of receipt of this writing will prevail between the parties. The restoration is carried out at the request of the subscriber under the same conditions as during the subscription.

It is reminded as much as necessary that the Bank cannot be held responsible for the consequences of the use by an unauthorised third party of the "confidential code" of the Customer or that of one of its "Internet Agents". However, if the Customer has been negligent or has acted fraudulently, the Bank reserves its right to render the Customer liable even after confirmation of the objection by the Customer.

Similarly, the Bank cannot be held responsible for the lack of protection by the Customer of data and/or software stored and loaded on his own computer equipment, particularly in case of contamination by viruses or in case of attempted intrusion.

The Customer declares that he accepts the characteristics and the limits of Internet and, in particular, recognizes that:

- He has knowledge of the nature of internet network and, in particular, its technical performance and response times to consult, query or transfer data;
- the data circulating on the Internet despite encryption algorithms and firewall protections implemented by the Bank are not necessarily absolutely protected, particularly against possible hijacks;
- the communication by the Customer to third parties of his ID and, in general, all information deemed confidential by the Customer, is at his own risks and perils;

- it is the responsibility of the Customer to take all appropriate measures to protect his own data and software from contamination by possible viruses on the Internet network; and
- data circulating on the internet can be regulated in terms of use or be protected by a property right.

In general, the Customer is solely responsible for all data he consults, queries, disseminates and transfers on the Internet and the use of services offered by the Bank. The Customer is informed that the internet is a network which carries a certain amount of data which could be protected and violate the legal and regulatory provisions in force.

5.3.5. Main services offered - services depending on access via Web or mobile

The Customer may, through the services of internet banking, subscribe to some of the products and/or services introduced on the Bank's website, it being specified that any request for subscription to one and/or the other products or services introduced through the Bank's website will be subject to the express prior agreement of the Bank or any other party to the contract whose express prior consent is necessary.

The Customer undertakes to respect the terms of subscription or membership and the limits specific to each type of transaction as well as the operating conditions of the service or services thus offered within the framework of the Internet Banking Service.

These services allow the Customer who has opted for their use and within the limits of the transactions defined in the Agreement that he has signed:

When there is written confirmation of an instruction already given by fax, the Customer must refer to the instruction previously given. Otherwise, the Bank cannot be held liable for having performed for a second time the instruction, unless gross negligence on its part.

In case of entry and taking into account of an instruction transmitted through the internet banking channel and also by telephone, by means of unsecured teletransmission, it will be up to the Customer alone to take all the necessary precautions to avoid a possible double execution of the instruction. The proof of the telematics orders will be constituted by the computer records of these instructions kept by the Bank. In any case and in the event of a conflict between the telephonic transmission of an instruction and its telematics confirmation, the proof of the characteristics of the instruction transmitted will be constituted by the telephone recording carried out by the Bank, which will take precedence over the confirmation given by the use of the telematics service of the Bank.
